Honorary Chairman — Curtis Elke

Curtis Elke has been an enthusiastic volunteer of the Forestry Contest since his first experience several years ago. Described by others as “a super nice person”, Curtis has championed the Forestry Contest within his agency, resulting in additional volunteers and funding. In fact, his support was instrumental in securing a generous 5-year NRCS grant to purchase equipment including practice kits that teams can use in preparation for the contest.

Curtis has worked for the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) for the past 21 years, and is currently the Idaho State Conservationist. As State Conservationist, he provides support through technical and financial assistance programs, public awareness of effective conservation measures to increase food production, profitability and land stewardship. He has served NRCS as a Soil Conservation Technician, Soil Conservation Planner, District Conservationist and Assistant State Conservationist in North Dakota, Oklahoma, Massachusetts, and South Dakota. He is a Soil Science graduate from North Dakota State University. Curtis has two children who both work for NRCS in California and Colorado.

"It's an honor and a great privilege being a public servant to our farmers, ranchers and community by providing leadership in delivering efficient and effective farm production and conservation planning and implementation with the optimal customer experience always in mind," Elke said.

Thank you, Curtis, for your huge role in educating Idaho youth about Idaho forest resources and the opportunities they have to learn about, enjoy, use, protect and manage these priceless resources for the future!
